All Good Children

by Catherine Austen

Maxwell 'Max' Connors lives in the planned community of New Middletown, one of the few safe havens after an economic and ecologic collapse. When the town's students receive a treatment that turns them into obedient, well-mannered, lifeless citizens, Max realizes he must find a way to save his family and friends from becoming mindless drones. This dystopian novel is action-packed, entertaining, and will provoke discussions about civil liberties, resistance, and conformity.

Resurrection Girls

by Ava Morgyn

Olivia Foster hasn't felt alive since her little brother died three years ago. Each member of the Foster family is dealing with the grief in their own way, and the Foster residence has become a quiet shell of a home. But when the strange new neighbors move in, Olivia's new friendship helps her fog begin to lift. Blending elements of the paranormal and magic, this novel discusses loss, love, and ultimately hope.
